Dear Parents:

This letter is to inform you that parents have the right under the 2001 federal law called the No Child Left Behind Act to request information regarding the "Highly Qualified" status of teachers. The law requires that all teachers who teach core subjects meet certain criteria for their position by the start of the 2006-2007 school year. Core subjects include Reading/Language Arts, Math, Science, Foreign language, Social Studies, Art, Music, and Elementary Education. To inquire about the Highly Qualified status of your child's teacher at any time, please contact me at the number above.

At H. W. Mountz School, we believe in the quality of our teaching staff. All of our regular teachers have college degrees and several have or are pursuing advanced degrees. In addition, each teacher continues learning through professional development activities.

All of H. W. Mountz School's teachers currently meet the criteria for "Highly Qualified" status under the No Child Left Behind Act.

Sincerely,

John E. Bormann
